BY MELLIFICIA. Thursday, August 21, 1913.

OMER CONANT, an Omaha artist, who has moved to New York and who is spending the summer in Paris, has written home concerning the newest fashions.

"They have returned to the styles of our great grandmothers," he writes. "The draped polonaise is the latest for evening and reception gowns, made exceptionally full over the hips, but very narrow at the ankles. The bodices, or blouses (blouses the French call them), have the low V front finished with fichu of tulle, net or old lace.

"Colonial slippers, with elaborate buckles and extremely high heels, are worn with this costume.

Et les cheveux, the latest coiffure, also resembles that of our great grandmothers. The hair is worn parted in the middle and covering the ears, and a Psyche knot on top of the head."

In Colorado Mountains.

W. G. Lansing is visiting in Colorado Springs and has made the trip to the summit of Pike's Peak.

GROCERS AND BUTCHERS ARE TO HAVE SECOND PICNIC

Although the Grocers' and Butchers' association of Omaha has already held its annual picnic they have decided to hold another picnic at Krug park. The date is set for next Thursday in the afternoon. This is to be only a half day picnic, while the other was an all day picnic. There is to be no program of athletic events as usual, but the grocers and butchers are to take out their wives, families and sweethearts, also lunch baskets, and have a nice family reunion for a half day. All grocery stores and butcher shops are expected to close dur- ing the afternoon.

CAN WED WHOM SHE PLEASES

So Decrees Judge Altstadt in Case of Jewess Who Married Turk.

GIVES DISTURBERS A LECTURE

Jarvis Points Out that So Long as Everything is Legally Correct in This Country it is Satisfac- tory to the Court.

The case of disturbing of the peace by the neighbors of Mrs. Omar, a Russian Jewess, who was married to a Turk last week, was brought up in police court. The disturbers were dismissed with the suggestion that they "mind their own particular business in future."

"This is a free country," Judge Alt- stadt remarked, in handing his decision, "and if a woman desires to be married to a Turk or an Arab, she has the great American privilege of doing so. So long as she loves the man and he is willing to support her it seems to me that the neighbors are wasting perfectly good time in criticizing her."

"As I understand it, a great many of you came over here as the Pilgrims did, and with the same idea in view of wor- shiping as you saw fit. And, as the Puritans did, you immediately take it upon yourselves to persecute those who differ on religious points."

"You must remember this; this country was organized with the point in view that a person may do whatever he wishes, so long as what he does will not conflict with the law. It took a long while to get the notion started right, and there may be some room for improve- ment yet; but I wish no repetition of the 'dark ages' in Omaha."

"This woman sold beer in her store," "Mamie Hollander, a neighbor, protested. "That is entirely apart from the case in hand," the court answered. "A per- son may sell beer—he may steal, even, so long as he is not caught. I take it that you all drink beer. Somebody must sell it. If you have any evidence to prove that this woman is selling beer without a license, bring it into court."

OMAHA ADVERTISES THE BIG FALL FESTIVITIES

Arrangements have been made by Al- bu-Sar for advertising in the newspapers of the state. The ads are already pre- pared and proofs will be sent out to the newspapers soon. Irwin Brothers have been notified to prepare their posters and have them sent to Omaha to be billed in Omaha and the state to advertise the wild west show as a feature of the festivities. The contract has been let for the printing of the Al-Sar-Ben posters that are to be used in Omaha. The contract was awarded to the Rees Printing company.

It has no superior for the pur- poses for which it is intended. Buy it now. For sale by all druggists.—Adver- tisement.

Daily Fashion Hint

Mr. and Mrs. Daehbach will take a north lake trip and will be home after October 1, at Pittsburgh, Pa.

Must Support His Family or Spend Heated Days in Jail

Oscar Mattison, a laborer, of 1335 Miami street, was in police court charged with being drunk, not supporting his wife and general all-round cruelty to her.

"What have you to say? Take that hat out of your mouth and stand up," Judge Altstadt commanded.

"Why, I didn't abuse her, judge. No, sir. I do the best I can to keep up ex- penses."

"How about it?" the court asked the wife. Mrs. Mattison came closer to the rail and her eyes filled. She faltered a moment and said: "He—he drinks, judge. My three children suffer. I try to tell him so whenever I can find him sober. Then he abuses me. Drunk or sober, he abuses me."

"I regret there are no whipping posts here," the judge remarked. "I fine you ninety days, with sentence suspended. I would keep you in jail, but your wife and children would then suffer from lack of food. Now you go home and to work and keep up expenses; otherwise—" here the judge waved his hand toward the cell blocks.

Two Victims on the Wrecked California Known in Omaha

When the Steamship California went down Sunday in Gambier Bay, off the coast of Alaska, it carried with it two persons well known among Omaha's. Mrs. Stella Riridon and daughter, Stella, both of Chicago. In 1908 Mrs. Riridon lived in Florence and after a residence there for four years moved to Blair, then later to Chicago. Her husband was half owner of the firm of Kinney & Riridon, hardware merchants at Blair. He was also a member of the state legisla- ture at the time of Governor Butler's impeachment.

Miss Stella Riridon has been a teacher in the public schools at Chicago for the last twenty-five years. Both she and her mother kept up a lively interest in literature and were well posted in history. Mrs. Riridon was 64 years old, while her daughter was about 45 years of age.

Prior to making the trip to Alaska they spent several days in Omaha with Mrs. A. J. Huettel, Twenty-second and Binney streets, after which they visited with Mrs. Charles Meyer, daughter and sister, at Hastings, Neb., for two weeks. The bodies will be brought back to Chi- cago for burial. They will be received at Seattle by Water and Light Commis- sioner Morey of Hastings.

Leslie King Sues Wife for Divorce

Leslie L. King, 333 Woolworth avenue, manager of the Omaha Wool and Storage company, whose injunction suit to keep his mother-in-law out of his home re- sulted in the departure of her and his bride, whom he married last September to Chicago yesterday filed a suit in dis- trict court asking a divorce.

Mr. King alleges his wife has treated him cruelly, saying that this is the third time she has left him and gone to Chi- cago to her parents' home. The first time was about a month after their mar- riage, the second in December and the last a few weeks ago.

He charges that Mrs. King is entirely under the influence of her mother, Mrs. Levi A. Gardner, and that the latter urged her to leave him and told her un- true stories about him. He says Mrs. Gardner told his wife it would be a dog's life to live with him. A son was born to the couple July 14.

TRADE COMMITTEE WILL BOOST OMAHA DAY AT FAIR

The Omaha trade extension committee of the Commercial club has decided to throw its efforts into making the Omaha and South Omaha day at the state fair, September 5, a big winner, and for that reason has thought it best not to get up a delegation to attend the Custer county fair and race meet at Broken Bow; the Fremont tractor demonstration, and the Norfolk fall festival, to each of which the club has received courteous invitations. The trade extension committee met this afternoon at the call of Chairman A. W. Carpenter for the purpose of closing up the affairs of the Neilgi, excursion which the club made some weeks ago. Plans were laid for making Omaha and South Omaha day at the state fair record days in attendance. It was decided that let- ters should be issued to all the members of the Commercial club setting forth the facts in regard to this day, with the train schedules, etc.

DR. JENSEN RESISTS WIFE'S PLEA FOR ALIMONY

Robert Percy Jensen, Omaha physician, filed an affidavit in district court in resistance to the demand of his wife whom he is suing for a divorce for tem- porary alimony, that he is unable to make enough to pay her his own expenses. His poverty, he alleges, is due to Mrs. Jensen's conduct.
